

PRESS RELEASE!!

DJ Webmin marketing trio with ProDJ.com and DJ Intelligence brings huge public interest.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINNESOTA. – March 11, 2002 -- DJ Webmin rounds off complete DJ administration, web and online marketing tools to offer complete solutions for today's DJ Company with help of DJ Intelligence and ProDJ.com.

DJ Webmin (DJWebmin.com) launched its Web-based DJ Administration program to the public in December of 2001, which saw great results and excellent feedback with its 30-day trial program. DJ's using this product have asked for additional features and most have been implemented to make this the most robust and accessible DJ administration program available to date.

In March of 2002 DJ Webmin, DJ Intelligence and ProDJ.com began talking about the tremendous power the three of them had in the industry by offer their products to the DJ community as components that work together to create a complete solution for mobile DJ's who are mainstreaming their business on the internet. DJ Webmin founder Barry Cedergren said, "DJ Intelligence would have been our biggest competitor if we tried to offer online music databases and online party planning solutions, our customers want that ability so we have an interest in giving them a solution. Rather than trying to compete with DJ Intelligence and their phenomenal dj tools we decided to integrate our systems to work with each other as components that customers could use. This is truly web technology at it's finest". Cedergren went on to say, "The topping on the cake all came together with ProDJ.com offering their website hosting and dj company marketing solution as well with this powerful set of DJ tools. There may be some that try now, but none can touch what we all can offer together to DJ companies everywhere."

The "dj life just got easier" marketing campaign is featured on each of the websites – djwebmin.com, djintelligence.com and ProDJ's hosting site mydjservice.com. Look for the article regarding this campaign in the Mobile Beat issue #75 along with a full color ad to peak the industry interest.
